Learn how to record different categories of sources such as census, vital records, church records, etc., and how to treat those sources originating from a document, microfilm, digital source or from secondary sources such as books, newspapers, and family lore. Learn how to include source citations in reports, charts and books that you create in Family Tree Maker. Rick is a frequent speaker at genealogy conferences across Canada and the US. He is a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists, The Genealogical Speakers Guild, National Genealogical Society, Ontario Genealogical Society, and the Ontario Historical Society.

Would you like (for personal use) a photo of a school you attended, an earlier family home, or the church where your grandparents were married? If these are nearby, you can take the photo yourself. But what if they are not? Using Google Maps or Google Earth combined with Street View and the screen capture features your computer you can capture pictures of those far away places. This will be illustrated and demonstrated. Guy enjoys showing how technology can assist genealogists in their family history research.

1:45 Break - Opportunity to purchase Books, Software, etc. at GLOBAL GENEALOGY & Branch Tables

2:00 Presentation III (60 mins) Researching Vital Statistics - Anne Delong

The presentation will provide an overview of the procedures for finding and interpreting birth, marriage and death records. Though these dates are often the first pieces information we learn from family members, this is just the beginning (Aunt Martha could be mistaken!). The presenter will discuss BMD sources, their reliability, how to document them, and what to do when records can't be found. Anne has been researching her family for over twenty years, served as an OGS Branch volunteer for at least twenty years, including Chair. Before retirement Anne was a Teacher/Librarian in Durham Region.
